A QUIET GAME OF CARDS

It Was Interrupted by Officer Earle Last Night.

ARRESTED ON AN OLD CHARGE

Fun in Police Court in a Quiet Way—A Steubenville Man Wants His Plate—A Row at the Circus With One Shot Fired.

The law says that games must not be played in saloons, and the police are enforcing it to the letter.

Last night Officer Earle walked down Fourth street with the information that a game was in progress at the saloon of Harry Hughes. He said nothing to anyone, but quietly walking in gave out the information that the card players were expected to call on Mayor Manley this morning. Then he made out charges against George Dale, Thomas Gearing, James McHenry, and another whose name he did not have at that time. Hughes was charged with allowing a game in his place of business.

OLIVER WAS MISTAKEN.

Thought the Police Had Forgotten That He Was Wanted.

A month or more ago Oliver Pinkerton took a ride on the electric line. He was on Motorman Brandenburg's car, and decided that he wouldn't pay any fare. The motorman thought he would and in the argument, which followed Oliver used language unbecoming a gentleman. Whether he was put off or held the fort was not learned, but a double charge was entered against him just the same. The motorman caused a warrant issued for Pinkerton's arrest on charges of disorderly conduct and refusal to pay fare. Hence Oliver fled—and where he has been is his own secret. He probably imagined that the affair had blown over, and returned yesterday free from care. He was laboring under a fatal delusion. Warrants, like Tennyson's brook, run on forever, and the memory of the Liverpool policeman is strictly all wool and a yard wide. Officer Whan heard about Oliver being in Wellsville, and went down yesterday afternoon and invited him up. It was hard for Oliver to leave a place where water is so scarce, but he tore himself away with mighty effort and spent last night behind the bars.

Willie Farmer called at the mayor's office yesterday morning. He had been there so many times previously during the week that it was just like returning a picture to its accustomed place to have him there. But his complaint on this occasion did not touch upon guinea pigs or rambo potatoes. Willie's coat and vest valued at $7 had gone the way of his late lamented fat hens, and he charged a young man named Blazier with the crime. Blazier was arrested in East End by Constable Lyon and locked up.

Doctor McCoy, of Steubenville, has notified the police here of a burglary at his residence on Thursday night. The thieves were a bold lot, and made way with all they could secure. Among the booty was silverware to the value of several hundred dollars and all the fine clothing the house contained. Steubenville authorities believe the burglars came to this city, and the police here were notified to keep watch for them. The officers are working on a straight clue.

A crowd of boys, some of them more or less notorious, were enjoying themselves in the West End last night, and to further their enjoyment went to the circus.

They were not content with viewing the regular performance but wanted to see something novel, and went to the dressing tent. There they could not gain entrance, but they cut a hole in the canvas and were in high glee when the circus men found them. The crowd was chased from that point of observation, and Officer Whan joined the pursuit. In order to help the cause along he drew his revolver, and fired a shot in the air. This scared the boys, and they were not taken. Pinkerton was given a hearing this afternoon, and after a lively trial was found guilty. The fine assessed was $5, and the costs will run the amount up to $17.60.

IT IS QUIET ON SMOKY.

The Police Can Not Understand the Absence of Rows.

Perhaps the most quiet and orderly place in town is Smoky Row. Where once the noise of carrousal and battle, mingled with the profanity of drunken men and women there is now peace and quiet. The white dove has spread its wings over it all, and there is no contention. The police can not understand it. While they know the city is unusually quiet for this season of the year and realize their work is easier than doing nothing they do not know why Smoky should array itself in the pure raiment of contentment, and pass its days at peace with all mankind. There has not been a row on Smoky for several weeks.

IN TIFFIN.

The Brotherhood Will Meet There Next Year.

Before the Brotherhood adjourned at Wheeling yesterday the question of holding the next convention was decided with little trouble. Tiffin wanted the convention, and fought so hard for it that the motion passed without difficulty. Charles McCauley was elected national statistician and E. A. Stevenson and William Adams are two trustees. The resolution asking a uniform scale is as follows:

"We the potters in convention assembled, desire to establish a uniform price list, put all manufacturers on the same footing, and pay the same price for the same shape in all potteries. Believing that the same is desired by the manufacturers, we ask the co-operation of the same in conjunction with the officers of the Brotherhood or such committees as they may appoint to meet at such time as they may agree upon."

An invitation was received from some of the Wheeling locals asking the delegates to remain in the city last night and attend a meeting, and some of them stayed, although the greater part left for home on the first train. A resolution was passed thanking the people of Wheeling for their kind treatment of the delegates during the convention. A short address by President Hughes in which he congratulated the Brotherhood upon their standing and progress closed the session.

AFTER A DIVORCE.

Another Petition Dropped Into the Big Hopper At Lisbon.

SPECIAL TO NEWS REVIEW.
LISBON, July 13.—Mrs. Mame Morrison this morning filed an action in court asking a divorce from her husband, John Morrison, of this place. The grounds given are extreme cruelty on three specified occasions during the four years they have been married. She asks, in addition to the divorce, that the court give back her maiden name of Mame Percival. The defendant is an attorney of this place, the son of Harvey Morrison, one of the best known lawyers of the county. After the pair were married they did not get along well together, and Mrs. Morrison has been living at the residence of her mother in Leetonia.

J. Edgerly, the Columbiana banker, ask the court to give him judgment for $8,500 against F. E. Mohr and H. S. Meyers on two promissory notes. The jury was out only 15 minutes in considering the case of George Shultz, the Wellsville boy who has been under indictment for burglary these four years. They found him innocent and he was released.

NOTHING NEW.

But the Bridge Project Moves Steadily Along.

"There is nothing really new in the bridge since the NEWS REVIEW spoke of it the other day," said J. E. McDonald this morning. "We have certain difficulties, slight, to be sure, to surmount, and until they are overcome there will be nothing more. Don't understand me as meaning we have met a serious obstruction, for the bridge is marching on as surely as Sherman marched his men through Georgia, and there will be news in abundance soon."

DISTRIBUTING PRIZES.

A Meeting of the Wheelmen on Tuesday Night.

The Ceramic City Cycle club will meet on Tuesday evening at city hall provided the quarters of the club can not be arranged by that time. W. L. Taylor, the president, was in town yesterday from Fernwood, and will be here again on Tuesday. It was the intention of the club to rent the old Columbian quarters, but for sufficient reasons that idea was abandoned. Several new members have recently been added to the list.

TWIN CITY BOYS.

May Battle With Y. M. C. A. Club on Monday.

The Twin City club will probably play with the association team at West End park on Monday afternoon. They have asked Manager Weaver for three games on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday but if any can be given it will be on the first day mentioned. The battle will be one of Liverpool players as the majority of the Twin Cities are home boys.

Sewer Commissioners and the Board of Health

INSPECT THE FAMOUS ALLEY

At the Meeting Last Night They Agreed to Let the Board Handle Matters of Less Importance, Including Tanyard Run, but All Looked at the Worst Spot Today.

The sewer commissioners and a committee from the board of health discussed the proposed changes in the sewer system for a short time last night.

The meeting was held in the office of Engineer George at city hall, and all the commissioners were there together with Messrs. Purinton, Thomas and Kauffman of the board. The proposed new sewers were discussed at length, particularly the places discussed at the last meeting of the board. Peach alley attracted more attention than any other sewer, and Engineer George had an interesting report to make. He showed how that part of the city had always been bad, and was now even worse than ever before.

He showed in glowing terms how the place was situated, and made a very good case of the necessity of a sewer in that particular alley. Ravine street also came in for a thorough exposure being pointed out as a dangerous place, while Tanyard run was shown in its true light. The details of these places are generally known to the public, particularly the people who live near them. It was the unanimous opinion of the commissioners that the sewers of lesser importance be left to the judgment of the board of health. If they see fit to have the improvements made they can order them at any time. The improving of Tanyard run was left to them, and if they want to improve its condition they will be backed by the commissioners. It was agreed that the expense of these improvements should be borne by the property owners and not the city as a whole. An ordinance providing for such payment in the case of Peach alley was passed by council some time ago. As the commissioners and the committee were anxious to see Peach alley in daylight the meeting was cut short, and an arrangement made to inspect the place this morning at 9 o'clock.

The inspection this morning showed the alley to be in bad condition, and the commissioners and the board recommended that a sewer be built at once. Engineer George will make the estimates and decide upon which way the water will run. The meeting resulted in the commissioners giving the board jurisdiction in the matter of sewer connections, a long-mooted question. This will simplify the work of the board, and at the meeting to be held next Friday evening there will be special attention to places where sewers are needed. The best of feeling prevailed during the meeting, both bodies being desirous of doing the right thing for the public good.

DIDN'T LIKE REPORTERS.

A Drunken Individual Who Made an Argument For Conductors.

A reporter of the NEWS REVIEW entered a car last evening, and was about to sit down when a drunken individual endeavored to prevent him by disputing his right to the seat. There were a few words, and the fellow subsided until he reached Walker when he made another attempt using profanity which did not sound well in the ears of several ladies on the car. At length he was silenced, and the reporter heard whispered through the car, "that is another reason why there should be conductors on this line."

WAITING FOR THE REPORT.

Engineers Still Working on the Proposed Electric Railway.

"We have nothing for publication," said Attorney A. R. Mackall when a reporter asked him how the new road was getting on. "You know there is a lot of work to do," he continued when pressed for information, "and it takes time to do it. Mr. Holbrook found so many points of interest to investing capitalists that he cannot make up a report in a day, and we are waiting. The country through which the line is to pass possesses engineering problems which must be investigated thoroughly before the big step is taken."

BROKE CAMP

And Came Home Last Night With a Stock of Fish Stories.

The Dujene club consisting of eight young men from this city broke camp last night and came home. They have been enjoying themselves at a spot about 14 miles above Grim's bridge, and have entertained from time to time visitors from East Liverpool. The scene was a pleasant one until the leave taking came and then all was sadness. The touching remarks by Professor Weingartner made the club sob aloud, and there was genuine grief written on their countenances when it was announced that they would have to return to work.

Principal among the fish stories which traveled so rapidly that they arrived home ahead of the club is that in the few weeks the club was in camp they caught 118 fish, 8 turtles and 84 frogs.

ONE FOR HILLSDALE.

The Strangers Whipped the Y. M. C. A. Club.

The Young Men's Christian association boys met their fate on the diamond yesterday afternoon, when they played the Hillsdales, and dropped to them a very pretty game of ball.

From start to finish the large crowd in the grand stand enjoyed the contest, and showed their appreciation of good plays by honest applause. When Twaddle, the hard hitter of the local team, smashed the ball for a good one or made an especially brilliant play at third he was applauded as was Salmon, the second baseman of the visitors. Percy Albright did very good work in left field where he was called upon to chase out some long hits, and Gabell, third baseman for the Hillsdales put up a very good game. The pitchers were hit hard, and the outfield had hard work to do from start to finish, but the players stood it very well each time making a good show. Another feature was the base running, some men making exceptional plays in this line. A decision or two from Umpire Scott did not meet with approval, particularly in the matter of foul balls. The Hillsdales make up the best club seen at the park this year, and another good game is promised for this afternoon.

A FALSE ADAGE.

A Case Before Squire Manley Shows There Is Something in a Name.

The old adage of "There's nothing in a name," or words to that effect, will have to be revised or a foot note furnished to show that it cannot be applied to law suits.

Recently John S. Dixon's case against John Saint was dismissed because he sued John Sant. The I had been unconsciously knocked out of the name and the squire performed the same operation on Mr. Dixon's optic.

Then the case of Otto Smitbauer, Jr., versus the Turners for $34 was filed. It came up this morning before Squire Manley. The action was against the "Turner Freund," and should have been "Turnverien." The defense called attention to this and Squire Manley dismissed the case at Smitbauer's cost.

A new summons was issued bearing the correct name, and Tuesday next set as the time for hearing the case.

Teacher and Pupil.

The case of Wucher against Waudby was today postponed in the court of Squire Rose without date. The best part of the matter is that J. H. Brookes represents the defendant and John McGarry the plaintiff, a case wherein teacher and pupil will battle.

A Sad Case.

A case of destitution with unusual features developed in the city this morning, and was taken in charge by a number of charitable ladies. A mother with several children has been ill for several days, and they were practically destitute.

Buried Today.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster, of California hollow, died yesterday, and was buried this afternoon in Riverview cemetery.

SOME ONE IS GUILTY

Squire Rose Has Given the Result of the Inquest.

THE CHILD KILLED BY VIOLENCE

The Crime Not Fastened Upon Mrs. Barcus the Accused, But She Is Still in Jail—A Brief But Effectual Decision From the Acting Coroner.

Who murdered the infant found in the vault in Gardendale remains undecided though the inquest is ended and on a charge by her brother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Barcus is confined in the county jail for the crime.

Acting Coroner Rose this morning decided that further evidence at the present time, or at least such testimony as he could hear outside of the witnesses examined, would not be necessary. Other evidence along the same line presented itself, but nothing of a startling nature could be found. Consequently the inquest came to a close. And the squire at once rendered a verdict. It was as follows:

I do find that the deceased came to his death by violence from a wound in the back of his head, inflicted by some blunt instrument in the hands of somebody, to the court unknown.

J. N. Rose, J. P.

Acting coroner.

When asked if he would in any way implicate Mrs. Barcus, Squire Rose said: "No, I am not justified in naming her as the guilty woman. Of course the evidence here tends to show that she was the mother of the child, but I will not say that she is. As soon as my evidence goes in this afternoon the case will be wholly in the hands of the probate court. I leave that tribunal to determine whether she is or is not guilty or whether there is enough evidence to hold her for trial."

It is known that the squire has the names of several witnesses who will probably have to go to Lisbon in the near future and testify against Mrs. Barcus. Just why the defense did not introduce witnesses is not apparent unless it be Attorney Brookes' objections to holding an inquest after interring the body.

The failure of the acting coroner to charge Mrs. Barcus with the crime does not release her from jail, as she was bound over on that charge.

ANOTHER EXAMINATION.

The Body of the Dead Child Was Raised Last Night.

The body of the murdered child was lifted last night by Undertaker West, and taken to his rooms on Sixth street. There Doctors Marshall, Andrews, Bailey, Clark, Williams and Norris were present, and about 10 o'clock another post mortem examination was held.

Doctors Marshall and Andrews were employed by the defense and Doctors Bailey and Clark conducted the examination for the court. No new marks were discovered, and the only difference was that the body was badly decomposed. The reports of the physicians were given to Squire Rose, and sent in with the other evidence today.

The affair was kept as quiet as possible. Undertaker West went in the darkness, and took the body from Spring Grove at Attorney Brookes demand and several of the physicians made a detour of the alleys below Sixth street before reaching the undertaking shop. The body was returned before morning.

BUILDING A NEST.

Persistent Sparrows Have a Comfortable Home.

Two sparrows, with enough sense to go in out of the rain, have chosen the are light at Fourth and Washington streets for their abode, and have been hard at work for several days constructing a home. They have carried straw and breads from the street and surrounding yards until they are very comfortably situated. The nest is built in the hood of the lamp, and the nestlings, if they are not disturbed, can be reared in a dry spot. One of the birds this morning occupied the best part of an hour attempting to carry a straw from the street to the new home. After repeated failures it flew to the veranda at the Phoenix club, rested for a time, and then mounted to the lamp with success. The last move was made after a noisy consultation with its mate.

Delegates Sing Around the Entrances to the Tents in the Morning—Meetings in the Centres of Battle at Noonday—Afternoon and Night Meetings.

Boston, July 13.—Thousands of delegates to the Christian Endeavor last night attended three mass-meetings, in

Mechanics' hall and in Tents Endeavor and Williston. Unwearied by the fever of the huge morning meetings in these centers, not tired by the earnest noon rallies in different places, where congregate the toilers of Boston and unsatisfied with the encouragement gained at the 15 general committee meetings, in the afternoon the Christians gathered, 25,000 strong, at the big meetings at the three great auditoriums of Mechanics' hall, and Tents Williston and Endeavor.

At Mechanics' hall building the address of Rev. A. C. Dixon, D. D., of Brooklyn attracted thousands, while other thousands were drawn to Tent

Williston by the announcement of an address by Rev. Henry Montgomery of Belfast, one of the ecclesiastical triumvirate of European fame, Spurgeon,

Brown and Montgomery. Pennsylvanians were partial to Mechanics' building, because Rev. J. T. McCrory, D. D.,

of Pittsburgh, widely and favorably known throughout the Keystone state, was one of the speakers. Among other good speakers at Tent Endeavor was

Rev. Heil Delk of Hagerstown, Md.,

whose subject was "The Centrality of Christian Fellowship."

At Tents Endeavor and Williston, the five-minute greetings of Endeavorers from the corners of the earth, constituting that part of the programme designated, "The parliament of nations," were both encouraging and instructive, and at all three meetings the presentation of a banner to a local union for best work in promoting local fellowship was a happy incident.

The other speakers at the meeting were greeted with the warmth that has uninterrupted been the spirit of the convention, and especially does this apply to the report of the Senior Mothers, or Parent society, which was given at Mechanics' building by Rev. H. W.

Kinney of Syracuse, N. Y. This is comparatively a new feature of the Endeavor society, and its increase, as indicated in the reports, produced marked enthusiasm.

The third day of the Christian Endeavor convention opened with ideal weather. Despite the immense amount of energy expended by the delegates at the great meetings of the day and night before, thousands of them were up almost with the sun, making their way to the 30 churches in the city and vicinity to attend the early prayer-meetings that began at 6:30 and lasted

45 minutes. All of the churches were well filled at these early meetings, and it is estimated that fully 20,000 persons participated in them. Besides the delegates many residents of the city attended before beginning their labors for the day. Some of the largest meetings were those held in the Park Street church, near Boston Common, the Shawmut Congregational church, the old South Congregational church and the old Baptist and North Avenue Baptist churches in Cambridge. After the church meetings rallies and song services were held in the streets in many parts of the city and hundreds of people on their way to work stopped to participate in them.

The morning sessions of the convention in Tents Williston and Endeavor and in Mechanics' hall were attended women and half a dozen men fainting.

Several hundred more were unable to gain admission.

At 2 p. m. 14 meetings announced collectively as a "school of practical methods of committee work" were held in various churches and halls in the city proper.

ALDERMEN TO BE INDICTED.

They Had Solicited Big Bribes From Ice

Companies in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 13.—The special grand jury called to investigate corruption in the city council relative to the Alderman Martin ice ordinance, has voted to indict Alderman William Finkler on two charges of soliciting bribes, and

Alderman Charles Martin on similar charges. These "true bills" are expected to be returned to Judge Tuthill

today.

Fred L. Rabe, an ice dealer, told the grand jury that Alderman Martin demanded $500 from him, and upon this representation one of the indictments was found. The other indictment was against Alderman Martin. They were based on the testimony of J. P. Smith of

J. P. Smith & Co. Alderman Finkler

was indicted on the evidence furnished by J. H. Williams of the Washington

Ice company, and C. B. Shedd and E.

H. Shedd of the Knickerbocker Ice company. These men told of the dealings in Alderman Finkler's office, during which the price asked dwindled from $500 to a lump to $750 for each of the big companies, and what could be gotten out of the smaller companies.

THE POTTERS' BROTHERHOOD.

Officers Elected and Tiffin, O., Chosen For the Next Place of Meeting.

WHEELING, July 13.—The annual convention of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters has come to an end.

Tiffin, O., was chosen as the place of next year's meeting, and the following national officers were elected: President, A. S. Hughes, East Liverpool, O.;

vice president, Jesse J. Jackson, Wheeling; secretary, H. J. McKee, East

Liverpool, O.; treasurer, Samuel Ear-ley, East Liverpool, O.; statistician,

Charles McCauley, New Cumberland,

W. Va., and seven trustees.

A resolution asking the co-operation of the pottery manufacturers in the adoption of a uniform price list in all potteries, was passed, and steps will be taken to bring about this change, which is said to be desired by the manufacturers as well as by the workmen.

Pow-Wow Doctor In The Tolls.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 13.—Henry

Crate, a notorious pow-wow doctor, has been committed to jail, charged with defrauding a woman. Crate called at the home of Harry Peters, at Ballietts lane, and in the absence of the latter, told Mrs. Peters that he would cure her of rheumatism by pow-wow-ing. Mrs.

Peters gave the man several dollars for the "treatment," but found no relief.

When her husband heard of the matter

he had Crate arrested.

BALTIMORE, July 13.—George R. List,

a carpenter, has been instantly killed cause, toppled over, throwing him an instant the blade had almost bi-sected his head. Death resulted instantly.

Increase—The Failures In Business.

NEW YORK, July 13.—R. G. Dun &

Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, issued today, says: A business flood so strong and rapid that the conservatives fear it may do harm is out of season in July.

But the seasons this year lap over and crowd each other. May frosts and frights, it is now evident, kept back much business that would naturally have been finished before midsummer, and the delayed accumulation of one season gets in the way of efforts to begin another on time. But the volume of business, however it may be measured, is remarkably large for the month,

Harris' Private Secretary Indicted For Burglary.

CHASED FROM PHILLIPS' HOUSE.

He Had Called on a Daughter of the Ex-Solicitor General—Later He Was Found In the Rooms of the Lady and Her Sister—Milliken Not In Custody.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The grand jury of the district has returned an indictment against Benjamin Harrison Milliken, formerly of Memphis, a young man well known in official and social circles in this city and private secretary to Senator Harris of Tennessee, for housebreaking and felonious assault. The offense for which he is charged was committed on the night of the Fourth of July, at which time he was arrested and taken to the station-house, but was subsequently released. Two days later Milliken left the city and has not yet returned. For some time past Milliken has been a frequent caller at the house of ex-Solicitor General Samuel F. Phillips, 1517 Rhode Island avenue. Mr. Phillips has two daughters, Gertrude and Nora, both accomplished young ladies of high character, and to the former Milliken was especially attentive. Milliken was always welcome at the house, as his character was supposed to be of the best. On the night of the Fourth Milliken called at the Phillips residence and asked for Miss Gertrude.

When the latter saw him she noticed that he acted queerly, as if he was under the influence of liquor. She left him at once and retired to her room. Milliken then summoned a servant and sent a card up to the young lady, but she refused to see him again and the servant showed him to the door. About midnight, after everyone in the house had retired, Mr. Phillips was suddenly aroused by his daughter, Nora, calling to him excitedly. Nora and Gertrude occupy communicating rooms on the third floor. When Mr. Phillips reached this room he found both his daughters there in a high state of excitement, Gertrude being apparently terror-stricken. The door leading into the latter's room was locked. Gertrude finally managed to tell him there was a man in her room. She had been awakened by the smell of chloroform and had found a man leaning over her. She had struck his hand away from her face and escaped to her sister's room.

Mr. Phillips started for his daughter's room with his wife and daughters to the lower floor. He was joined by his partner, Mr. Frederick McKenney, but in the meantime two policemen arrived on the scene. The man, however, ran downstairs and escaped into the back yard. As he passed the light he was recognized as Milliken. The police followed and arrested the man and he was taken to the station-house. He was released later in the night. How Milliken got into the house is not known. The servants say the doors were securely locked as usual. Entrance could easily have been effected, however, by means of the side window on the first floor. When Mr. Phillips learned that Milliken had been released he was intensely surprised. While naturally disposed to shun the unpleasant notoriety which would ensue, he thought the law should take its course.

Milliken is about 30 years old, rather attractive in appearance and a good conversationalist. He came here from Memphis some years ago as a correspondent for some southern newspaper. Later on he was connected with the local press.

JOINED THE INSURGENTS.

Americans in Cuba Do So After a Fourth of July Banquet.

HATANA, July 13.—News, which has just reached here from the Juraguá iron mines, in the province of Santiago de Cuba, shows that the Fourth of July was celebrated there in a strange manner. The employees of the mines enjoyed a banquet on Independence day, after which several of the assistant superintendents and others joined the insurgents. Among the latter were the superintendent of the Daikini iron mines, an engineer, and Dr. Castillo, formerly a surgeon in the United States navy, who was on board the relief ship Rogers when she went in search of the lost Arctic exploring steamer Jeanette.

A detachment of 240 men belonging to the Puerto Rico battalion, under Major Ordóñez, has had an engagement near Malones with the insurgent band commanded by Angel Guerra. The insurgents left nine dead on the field and had 11 men wounded. The troops lost two men killed and had two wounded.

Governor McKinley's Engagements. COLUMBUS, July 13.—Governor McKinley says his only engagements now are with the Sixteenth U. S. N. G., Bryan, O., July 24 and Chautauqua, N. Y., Aug. 24.

An Increase in Wages. READING, Pa., July 13.—Over 200 employees of the Blandin Rolling mill in this county, have received an increase of 10 per cent in their wages.

CLEVELAND'S DOMESTIC BLISS.

A Letter Written Four Years Ago Telling of His Happiness.

ATLANTA, July 13.—A local paper prints a letter written four years ago by President Cleveland to John Temple Graves of Georgia, the distinguished southern orator, on receipt of an invitation to Mr. Graves' then approaching marriage. When the wedding cards were sent to the then ex-president, Mr. Graves accompanied them with a letter in which he paid tribute to the beauty and tenderness of the president's own domestic life, and the influence of this high example upon the domestic life of the people.

The answer came promptly in the exquisite letter which follows, in which Mr. Cleveland said: "We received the card of invitation to your wedding a day or two ago and I am glad that your letter, received only a few hours ago, justifies me, on behalf of my dear wife and myself, to do more than formally notice the occasion. And first of all, let me assure you now, how much we appreciate the kind and touching sentiment you convey to us in our married state. As I look back upon the years that have passed since God in His infinite goodness bestowed upon me the best of all His gifts—a loving and affectionate wife—all else, honor, the opportunity of usefulness and the esteem of my fellow-countrymen, are subordinated in every aspiration of gratitude and thankfulness."

"You are not wrong, therefore, when you claim, in the atmosphere of fast-moving bliss which now surrounds you, kinship with one who can testify with unreserved tenderness, to the sanctification which comes to man when heaven-directed love leads the way to marriage."

"Since this tender theme has made us kinsmen, let me wish for you and the dear one who is to make your life doubly dear to you, all the joy and happiness vouchsafed to man."

"You will, I know, feel that our kind wishes can reach no greater sincerity and force than when my wife joins me in the fervent desire that you and your bride may enter upon and enjoy the same felicity which has made our married life 'one grand, sweet song.'"

HOT AFTER RAILROAD BILL.

Officers on the Trail of the Southern Negro Desperado.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 13.—Superintendent McKinney of the Louisville and Nashville railroad has received a telegram from reliable sources that the notorious negro desperado, "Railroad Bill," who recently shot and killed Sheriff McKillan of Escambia, has been seen near Daphney, Baldwin county. He was heavily armed with a Winchester and several pistols.

Hundreds of men have been scouring the whole country for a week for the desperado, and several Pinkerton detectives have passed through the city to try to locate the man, for whose capture there is nearly $2,000 reward.

The Louisville and Nashville officials here believe they will catch the negro, as they are close on his trail, but he is not expected to be taken alive.

Mrs. McDonald Located.

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—Mrs. Elise McDonald, reported to have fled from San Francisco with $100,000 belonging to her husband, Richard H. McDonald, Jr., now in jail in that city awaiting trial for forgery and embezzlement in connection with the wrecking of the Pacific bank, has been located in this city. She is stopping with her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Charlton, at 2808 North Carson avenue. She says the story is false.

A Hungarian Riot.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 13.—During a Hungarian riot at Georgetown, a suburb of this city, Anthony Luckessa, age 40, and John Koskie were fatally stabbed. In arresting those who took part in the fight, Constables Lyons and Flannery were badly beaten. Many of the rioters were lodged in jail.

She Expects an Angel.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., July 13.—Because Mrs. Elizabeth Mengenas of Mount Carmel declared that an angel is coming to take her to the better world in a fiery chariot and stands clad in a white robe in the front door awaiting his arrival, Judge Savidge appointed a jury to take evidence as to her sanity.

Zimmerman's Fast Mile.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 13.—The events at the big bicycle meet were principally slow yesterday. Zimmerman made a mile in 1:57 4-5, only four-fifths of a second slower than the mile he made in Paris. As the track here is several seconds slower, it was a remarkable performance.

A Battle With Indians.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 13.—Reports have reached here of a fight in Jackson Hole, south of the Yellowstone park, between settlers of the region and a party of Bannock Indians, who were unlawfully killing game. One Indian was killed and 15 captured.

A Southern Coal Trust.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 13.—Coal operators of the Birmingham district have formed a mammoth pool. Kentucky and Tennessee companies will join, and effect a big southern coal trust to dictate prices.

BRICE'S RAILROAD SCHEME.

He Intends to Found a System Connecting New York and Chicago.

CLEVELAND, July 13.—Some of the railway men now declare that they know why Calvin S. Brice bought the Pittsburgh, Akron and Western road a short time ago. They claim to know with certainty that he is forming a great railroad system which will be the shortest route between Chicago and New York and have ramifications to many of the great business centers. The line will be between the Vanderbilt system on the north and the Pennsylvania on the south and will cross the Erie in several places. The Cleveland, Akron and Columbus is the link connecting with Cleveland. Brice has made a deal with the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railroad, which has built a line to Clearfield, Pa., and got close connections with the Beach Creek railroad, which feeds into the Philadelphia and Reading at Williamsport. Thus is afforded an outlet to the time-water.

A branch will be built from Dubois to Butler, Pa. The link between New Castle, Pa., and Akron is in control of Hon. D. P. Reighard of Pittsburgh. From Akron, Delphos can be reached via the Pennsylvania and Western and Fort Wayne by the Delphos and Wayne and Chicago. A short link will have to be built to the Chicago branch by the Wabash railway.

LEWIS' CREDITORS SUE.

The Forgeries Likely to Amount to $300,000—His Wife Starts Home.

URBANA, O., July 13.—Suits have been brought here to marshal liens on mortgages and judgments against Forger Lewis. It is now believed the forgeries will reach $300,000.

A St. Clair (Mich.) special says: Mrs. Z. T. Lewis, wife of the famous alleged bond swindler, has left here for her home at Urbana, O. Mrs. Lewis has been staying at the Oakland, where she was sent by her husband, who requested that she remain there until sent for. Mrs. Lewis is heartbroken over her husband's disgrace, which she first learned of day before yesterday. She still believes him innocent, however. J. C. Reher, cashier of Williams National bank at Dayton, O., visited Mrs. Lewis yesterday and advised her to return home. Mrs. Lewis says she had a telephone message from her husband on Wednesday last, but although, he then said he was at Dayton, she says she has no idea of his whereabouts.

The Flint's Convention.

TOLEDO, July 13.—The most important report at the Flint's convention was that of the eastern place committee. When the manufacturers and eastern place workers' committee held a conference in Philadelphia last month, the manufacturers asked for an equalization of moves in certain lines of ware, particularly in fish globe moves, which they desired to have increased. This the workers refused to do, and the convention ratified their stand. The wages in this department will remain the same as last year.

Unable to Obtain a Mayor.

MARION, O., July 13.—A departure from the regular politics has occurred at Waldo, this county, which is without a mayor. The one who sought the honor and was elected declined to serve, and since that time the village council has been trying hard to find a man. After electing several, they find no one that will accept, even when the selection is non-partisan, and the people are at a loss for an executive power to enforce the ordinances.

Shot His Mother Through the Head.

CANTON, O., July 13.—Late Thursday night John Bailey, the 16-year-old son of Saloonist Abraham Bailey, as he arrived at home, became involved in a quarrel with his mother. He shot her through the head with a 32-caliber revolver, and the chances are against her recovery. Bailey gave himself up to the authorities, saying he shot to kill. He is under arrest.

Receiver for Lewis' Bank.

COLUMBUS, July 13.—Sheriff Jacob of Greenville, O., has been appointed receiver of the Citizens' bank at Ansonia, O., of which Z. T. Lewis, the forger, was president. The bank is closed and depositors are entering claims.

SMALL OHIO HAPPENINGS.

Finley Spence, a prominent farmer of Pleasant Plain, was injured in a runaway accident Saturday. He leaves three children and an insane wife.

The chinch bugs are rapidly destroying the corn and oats crops in the region of Blanchester.

The officials of Upper Sandusky are after a man that hired a horse and buggy of S. M. Brown Monday and has not yet returned. He claimed to be a pension agent sent here to collect testimony.

The little son of William H. Diefeld, a farmer, living near Hebron, is dying of hydrophobia. He was bitten on Decoration day.

Near Bergholz, Jefferson county, gas has been struck at 1,000 feet.

A Dryden was killed at Ashland by a train while working as a brake man for 30 minutes.

A halfwitted man named Andrew Smith was arrested at Troy, by a colored detective, on a charge of assaulting a 9-year-old child in Paulding county. The prisoner, who has confessed, was taken back to Paulding.

Clements Dolgers, a resident of Adams county, has suddenly disappeared from his home, and it is believed he has drowned himself in the Ohio river.

Brakeman McCarthy fell off a train at Bucyrus while switching, and 15 cars passed over him. He held fast to the center of the track between the rails and escaped death, but was badly bruised by the brake rods.

N. F. Black of Fostoria, owner of Billy B, who came to Lancaster for the races, was arrested charged with forging a bill of lading for the horse. Black compromised and was released.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Ambrose Cartwright is moving to the campground today.

A pleasant party of society people enjoyed the afternoon and evening at Columbian park yesterday.

The street railway is again on the 12-minute schedule after a long trial of six minutes between cars. There are also more spaces than formerly.

The baptism of seven converts to the Free Methodist faith at the foot of Union street yesterday afternoon attracted a great deal of attention, and a large crowd.

More trees have died in the city this year than in several seasons, the last to show signs of distress being a large tree in front of the residence of J. M. Kelly on Fifth street.

"The streets are dirtier than ever," said a business man today. "I wish finances or whatever controls such matters were in better shape," and he expressed the opinion of the city.

A Youngstown paper says that a man named H. Andrews from East Liverpool was arrested there on Thursday night for being drunk and disorderly. Does anyone know him?

A party of 25 persons picnicked at Rock Spring yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Edward Elliott, of Pittsburgh, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Field, at the residence of Daniel Pollock on Fourth street.

The slightest show for prosperity in the city always brings strangers here to live, and almost every day now sees a moving. Mrs. Martha McCurdy moved her effects here from Pittsburgh today, making several for this week.

An Ironville man who was in the city today says the mill has not yet resumed work in full, and a feeling is creeping about the town that work there will be slow. The high price of iron has much to do with the lack of trade.

A party made up of nine tramps annoyed people in the West End last night. One told the unique story that he was a western farmer burned out of house and home by the prairie fires last month. He also claimed to have lived here a few years ago.

From letters received here by relatives it is known that Major Adams, the well known dipper at Laughlin's who is at present in England, was taken ill immediately after his arrival there and is now suffering from the fever. He may not recover.

George Griffiths, a printer in the Warwick pottery at Wheeling returned to that place this morning after a long visit with his mother in this city. The pottery starts on Monday in full, but some departments have been on since Wednesday.

A party of gypsies located in East End last night, having come from some point up the river. This valley has always been a favorite resort of the wanderers, but it has been a long time since there were as many here as at present. Why they should all gather in this vicinity is a mystery.

It is quietly whispered around that some local people are interested in the new oil field in Carroll county, and have taken stock in a company formed there last week for the development of what is believed to be a rich find. They were also thought to be backing the Dunganon venture some time ago.

A fight occurred in a skiff on the river last night and one man got a ducking for the part he played in it. They were all drunk, and the dispute arose over the ownership of a necktie. All parties belong in West Virginia, but their ravings when the fight was in progress could plainly be heard on this side.

Bob Potts had the good fortune to catch a couple of big turtles at Phillips island yesterday, and one of them weighed 15 pounds. It was one of the soft shell variety. The statement that William Hackworth captured the monster is denied by Mr. Hackworth, who merely caught a string of 33 fish in half an hour.

As proof that the people of East Liverpool are curious and thirsting for information one need go no farther than the Wyllie house as it slowly moves along Fifth street. The other morning over 100 persons were seen watching the process by an observer, and last night there was at one time 93 persons with their eye on the work.

The Courier went up this morning with a good trip, and the regular Sunday packets are expected. The river is not falling, but a rise is expected, and the coal men are thinking they will have a boating stage before the month is over; perhaps next week. Business, it is thought, will be very good, as the low water has allowed the accumulation of much freight at the various landings.

There is more bridge talk in the air just now than has ever been heard in the city before. People are making application for work, and the unusual activity of the company's officers shows the deal is on in earnest as has been repeatedly stated in the News Review. The contract has not yet been let, but it is stated that the steel was purchased two years ago at prices prevailing at that time, and to be delivered when the company needed it.

100 Shirt Waists

Came in by express Saturday morning. They have sold all season at $1.50 each. We are letting them go at $1.25 each. They are selling, too. Almost half of them went out Saturday. You will have to come soon if you want one. They are our "Justine" make, and the patterns are all choice. Small polka dots and rings, with black, navy blue and red grounds.

Wrappers. Tea Gowns.

It has been hard to keep up sizes in this department, but the big lot we got in last week will keep us going for some time. You can find all sizes, all styles and all colors in our wrapper stock at present.

White Goods.

It's remarkable the way the demand keeps up for these goods. Dotted Swisses are still selling freely, as are also the striped and plaid nainsooks. Nothing makes a cooler dress than white goods, and surely no summer goods are better adapted for hot weather. Our stock was never more complete.

Silk Mitts and Gloves.

The "Merrill" glove with the double tips has been very popular this season and has given splendid satisfaction. We are selling the best 25c silk mitt in the city. In fact, all grades of mitts and gloves sold in our glove stock are the best that money can buy.

Underwear.

We are selling ladies' vests at 10c, 15c, 20c and 25c that will pay you to buy, or at least will pay you to examine before buying. We consider them bargains.

TALES OF OLD RELICS

Ancient Hand Bills On the Posts at Metsch's Mill.

HOW A FAMILY LOST OLD CHINA

The Business Announcements Can Be Plainly Read On the Post Where They Were Posted Years Ago—A Story of a Disappointment From the Other Side.

The flour mill of C. Metsch has long stood on the present site near the passenger station, and if it could talk many stories of Liverpool in its younger days would come to the surface. The mill was for years the most public place in the town, and farmers from this part of the country and the Panhandle always gathered there to discuss crops and other matters of interest.

As a reporter wandered through the place this morning, and wondered what strange tales those hewn old timbers could tell his attention was attracted to several bills posted on some of the oldest timbers in the building. They are relics of the days when Liverpool was a country town, and the merchants did more business among the farmers than they are doing at present. They are valuable because they were posted in their present positions almost half a century ago, and in that time have been telling the public of wonderful bargains. One poster advertises the business of Josiah Thompson whose store still stands at the corner of Broadway and Second street. It bears the date of October 15, 1858, and is smaller than the ordinary bill now used by merchants. As a typographical wonder it would not set the world on fire, but it is nevertheless a good specimen of the printing of that day, being surrounded with the border so often used by printers when this part of the world was new. He advertises "dry goods and all kinds of goods usually kept in a country store." These he wanted to sell for cash or would exchange for country produce. Another bill dated December 10, 1861, announces that business is alive, and the people who are indebted to him are asked to please pay up. Another bill is badly worn and does not bear the marks of time as well as the older ones. It bears a large eagle, and was evidently attractive at that time. These bills have been there in plain sight of the public for many years, and have been passed a thousand times without a word of notice. They are valuable, because they serve to show the spirit which brought East Liverpool from a sleepy country village, and made it an enterprising city.

In this connection it is not amiss to bring out the story of another relic which was owned in the city, but is no more. An English family, who would not allow the use of their name for reasons which plainly appear, owned two pieces of ware when they came here many years ago that had long been handed down from father to son. One was a plate several hundred years old, and a beautiful relic of the ware produced in Staffordshire when Liverpool was a magnificent oak forest. It was of peculiar shape, and won the admiration of all who chanced to see it. The other piece was evidently Egyptian pottery that had stood the knocks of time for centuries, probably a piece picked up by some venturesome traveler long years ago. Both were prized by the family, and they would not have parted with them in any consideration. When the hard times came on, and the only support of the family had no employment, the savings of a lifetime were gradually eaten up. They never owned a home, and had none to mortgage. At length the strike came, and with it other troubles, principal among them being that the family would soon be on the township or the relief committee. When this seemed certain a daughter secured employment enough to keep the wolf from the door, but as there was danger of her losing the place it was decided to send the relics to England to a descendant of the man who probably made the plate, with the hope that in his kindness of heart he would repay them with a generous sum. They were carefully packed and sent, and the family waited patiently for the answer. At length it came, and they almost dropped dead when the letter was read. It was only a brief letter of thanks, and a pound note with which to "buy a present for the baby." The family were almost heart broken, and endeavored to get the precious relics, but repeated letters brought no reply, and the matter was dropped. Nothing was ever heard of it, and those poor people are still mourning the loss of their china.

A Garbage Furnace. East Liverpool people who have spent this week in Wheeling are enthusiastic on one subject at least when discussing the merits of the West Virginia city. That is the subject of disposing of garbage. It is no question whatever in Wheeling, as high up on the mountain, the very highest point in the city, can be seen the garbage furnace, with its dull glow each night, and people are satisfied with the knowledge that the refuse of the population will be no menace to the health of the community. The visitors are united in the belief that East Liverpool should have such a furnace, and that only the healthy location of this city saves it from epidemics of fatal diseases.

MASHED THE BUGGY. The Horses Ran Away and Demolished the Rig.

Frank Finley, a Chester resident, was driving along a road on the other side of the river last night when he came to a gate. He got out to remove the obstruction, and the horse ran away. It had clear sailing for half a mile, but then the buggy struck a log, and began to break up. Finley followed the outfit, tracking it by pieces of his rig scattered along the road. At length he found the horse had kicked itself loose, but before doing it had mashed the buggy into a hundred pieces. The rig is a total loss, but the horse was not badly hurt.

SOCIETY.

I looked and saw a splendid pageantry Of beautiful women and of lordly men Taking their pleasure in a flowery plain Where poppies and the red anemone And many another leaf of cranioy Flickered about their feet and gave their slain To beds of iron or satin, and the grain Of silken garments floating far and free As in the dance they wove themselves or lay. By twos together or lightly smiled and bowed. Or courted to each other or else played At games of mirth and pastime, unafraid In their delight, and all so high and proud They seemed scarce of the earth whereon they trod.

I looked again and saw that flowery space Stirring, as if alive, beneath the tread That rested now upon an old man's head And now upon a baby's gasping face Or mother's bosom or the rounding grace Of a girl's throat, and what had seemed the red Of flowers was blood in gouts and gushes shed From hearts that broke under that frolic pace, And now and then from out the dreadful floor An arm or brow was lifted from the rest, As if to strike in madness or implore For mercy, and anon some suffering breast Heaved from the mass and sank, and as before The revellers above them thronged and pressed.

—William Dean Howells.

SHE WAS AFRAID.

And Took Particular Care to Outwit Those Wicked Night Doctors.

Mme. Kirkholder's servant was getting ready to go home for the night. It was about 9 o'clock in the evening. Just as her bonnet was on her head and her hand on the door to depart, Mme. Kirkholder noticed that the face was aglow with grease—a liberal coat—from ear to ear.

"Tut, tut, Katie!" remonstrated Mme. Kirkholder. "Wash your face before you go. You mustn't go home with such a looking face as that."

Katie muttered something, and taking off her bonnet turned to the sink, as if about to make the improvements suggested. It chanced that just as Katie was again about to depart Mme. Kirkholder was amazed to find her countenance even more tremendous in grease than before.

"What on earth is the matter with your face, Katie?" asked Mme. K. "Why don't you wash away that grease?"

"I'm afraid of dem yur night doctors," said Katie faintly. "What's that?" queried Mme. K. "The night doctors. What in the name of goodness is a night doctor, and what have they to do with you?"

"Why de night doctors done catch yo'," replied Katie in a horrified whisper, "an dey takes yo' an bleeds yo' to deed. Deed dey does. Dey catches yo' an puts a plash over yo' mouf so yo' can't squall, an lugs a pusson off somers an bleeds 'em till dey's daid. An dat's why I done greases all roun my mouf. Dat's so no plash won't stick, an of dey teches me I'll holler like a wildcat, an yo' bet dey'll done drop me an money off. Deed I'ze 'fraid, Miss Kulkholder, to go outen de dark unless my mouf is greased." Mme. K. said no more, and when Katie slammed the back gate her face was like unto a pan of lard.—Washington Star.

What Caesar Said.

A little girl lately asked her mother how to pronounce Caesar's famous laconic utterance. "I really don't know what to tell you," was the answer. "When I studied Latin, we said 'Veni, vidi, vici,' exactly as it is spelled. A few years later they began to use what was called the continental pronunciation and said, 'Veene, veede, veeke.' Now I fancy your college sister would tell us that it was Weene, weede, weeke." The collegian was appealed to accordingly and announced: "No; there is a later way still. We say, 'Wainee, weede, weche,' for the very latest." As Lowell complained in his old age, who can pretend to keep up with the gibberish into which the classics are being turned by modern teachers of them?—Philadelphia Press.

A Means of Disinfecting Wells.

Heavy rains are apt to contaminate wells and spread disease; hence Dr. Franck has brought under the notice of the Polytechnic society of Berlin a means of disinfecting wells, which he employs with success. It consists in suspending in the mouth of the well an earthenware dish containing 50 to 100 grams (a gram is about 15 grains) of bromine, which, being volatile in air, forms a dense vapor that fills the well, and is absorbed by the water, thus disinfecting it. The water, it is true, has a slight taste of bromine for a time, but is wholesome enough.—London Globe.

How It Was.

"And where's Sappeigh?" inquired the returned clubman, who was posting himself. "Is he still courting that bright western girl?" "Oh, no," replied his friend. "She jollied him for six months or more and fooled him at last." "Ab," with a sympathetic sigh, "she rejected him, did she?" "Not much. She married him."—Detroit Free Press.

The English Soldier.

An English soldier coming on duty was heard to say to his comrade, "Well, Jim, what's the orders at this post?" Jim replied, "Why, the orders is you're never to leave it till you're killed, and if you see any other man leaving it you're to kill him."—"Recollections of a Military Life," General Sir John Adge.

In skilled labor, such as that of the blacksmith, wagon maker, shoemaker and the like, the proportion of foreign to native labor in the United States is not so large as in unskilled labor.

The winter of 1812 and 1813 was one of the most severe ever known in Russia, a fact which partially explains the terrors of the retreat from Moscow.

The Appalachicola river, in Florida, took its name from that of an Indian town on its banks, Appalachicola, meaning "an old town or fort."

AGAINST THE OLD K. OF L.

A Hot Time in the Window Glassworkers' Convention.

PITTSBURGH, July 13.—Several bombs were exploded in the window glassworkers' convention yesterday. It was discovered that John W. Hayes, secretary-treasurer of the Knights of Labor, was not under bond, and conclusively shown that the Window Glassworkers' association would not pay its per capita tax and remain with the Knights of Labor. That an independent organization will be formed is now assured. Grand Master Workman Wilson of the Independent Knights says he has no hopes of getting the autocratic body into his organization, but is satisfied with keeping the money and big labor organization out of the hands of the bosses.

Sovereign and Hayes, for the old K. of L., and Wilson, for the new K. of L., made speeches, and there was a hot time. Sentiment was mainly against the old order.

Muzzles For Ducks.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW.—It is not generally known that a genuine Newfoundland dog is web footed like a duck. But this is true, which explains their fondness for the water. Such a dog would be perfectly safe in a shipwreck at sea, as he would be able to swim to shore, no matter how distant, and shake himself dry enough to sit on a parlor carpet in an instant. As, like the duck's feathers, his hairy coat is supplied with duck oil that makes it impervious to water like the proverbial duck's back. The ordinance requiring patent 25 cent muzzles for all dogs in general, should be obsolete and of non-effect as pertaining to this particular breed of dog. "Puttin' cushions on mules' hind end in Kentucky hab dun gone out ob fashion," as the old darkey remarked after he'd tried to adjust a pair. Moral—Don't waste your money on a muzzle for a duck.

A DUCKLET.

Knights of the Maccabees.

The state commander writes us from Lincoln, Neb., as follows: "After trying other medicines for what seemed to be a very obstinate cough in our two children we tried Dr. King's New Discovery and at the end of two days the cough entirely left them. We will not be without it hereafter, as our experience prove that it cures where all other remedies fail."—Signed F. W. Stevens, state com.—Why not give this great medicine a trial, as it is guaranteed and trial bottles are free at T. L. Potts' drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called kidney cures but without good result. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50 cts. for large bottle. CAYLOR'S BALL GOSSIP

Uncle Anson Again the Hero of the Diamond.

HIS COLTS ROUNDING INTO FORM.

After Waiting Almost as Long as Jacob Waited For Rachel the Grand Old Man of Baseball Has All Chicago at His Feet. Baltimore's Great Team.

July 5 practically ended the first half of the National league pennant race. Each club had six scheduled games with each other club checked off, though nearly a score altogether have been postponed, and when the eastern clubs started west upon their second long trip the latter half of the season began.

It found the champion Baltimore in the lead. This fact is a reminder that the season has been full of surprises. A week before the fourth the Boston were in the lead and were playing such winning ball on their home grounds that an impression went abroad that they would "win galloping" to use a race track expression. At the height of their triumph the Bean Eaters left homes and mothers, removed to the wilds of Philadelphia and began their downfall. The hard hitting Quakers fell upon the Boston pitchers, and Nash's men went down into the dust three successive times. Thence the champions journeyed to Brooklyn and kept up their slump with two more reverses. The five defeats, coupled with double victories by the Pittsburghs and Chicago on the fourth, sent the Boston down to fourth place.

But there are other surprises on the baseball card. Uncle Anson heads one of them with his stable of Colts. At this writing Southern league, where he made some fame. Prior to that time I believe Comiskey had him in the Cincinnati team, but let him drift back into minor league company. His berth in Brooklyn has been precarious almost since it began. No pitcher living has had so many ten days' notices and intended releases hanging over his head as has Daub since he was a member of the Brooklyn. Something always happens to restore him to favor. I remember last year, when his trunk was packed and he was figuratively waiting for the train, one of the glit edged, morocco bound pitchers on the team got a fearful dose of bat medicine from the foe and had to retire. Daub was called in as a domestic source, and he saved the day. That settled it. Dan's ticket was redeemed, his trunk was unpacked, and he had credit once more among the tradespeople of Brooklyn.

The Atlantic coast team on July 4 cost the six eastern clubs of the National league not less than $25,000 by postponing the afternoon games in New York, Philadelphia and Brooklyn. Fortunately it extended not very far inland, and the minor leagues were not seriously affected thereby. But now that the great holiday is past the test will come. Wherever a weak spot exists in the minor league circuits it will develop, and one need not be surprised to see some of the clubs drop out of business. Rumors have it that several unsuccessful clubs have been hanging on with a hope that the holiday would help them financially.

The fact that 70,000 people saw the four national day games in Chicago and Pittsburgh is an assurance that the revival of the sport in the west is a healthy one. With the popular tide in Chicago comes a protest against the continuance of Sunday games in that city. I am glad to read that Anson has arrayed himself among the anti-Sunday advocates. He declares that he hopes the law will wipe the custom out of the amateur ranks in America today. Anson is but foreshadowing the National league's action. At the next annual meeting the league will most probably return to its non-Sunday playing policy.

O. P. CAYLOR.

CABANNE IS A CRACKAJACK.

The St. Louis Cyclist Is One of the Swiftest Racing Men in America.

With the exception of Edward Cannon Bald of Buffalo, L. D. Cabanne of St. Louis is probably the swiftest racing cyclist in the amateur ranks in America today. He belongs to an excellent French family of St. Louis and has long enjoyed a local reputation as an all round athlete. In 1886 he developed such talent as a swimmer that he won the one mile championship of the Mississippi valley. He next became a sprinter and hurdler and at one time held the western association championship in the short distance runs and the hurdle races. Later he turned his attention to boxing and wrestling, and in 1893 was amateur champion boxer of Missouri and Nebraska. He is also an excellent marksman.

Two years ago Cabanne began riding a bicycle and soon developed rare speed and staying qualities. His first public appear-

PITCHER DANIEL W. DAUB, BROOKLYN.

It begins to look as if the ancient and enthusiastic Chicago chief's annual bluff at the pennant was this time liable to come very near to realization. For five years the Grand Old Man of the diamond has been and the ironical jokes of the Chicago press and people, but it had as much effect upon him as a boy's popgun would have upon the outside surface of a rhinoceros. Uncle Adrian kept talking about "next year" and ignored the present.

At last the "next year" of his dream has come, and, after waiting almost as long as Jacob waited for Rachel, Anson on July 4 realized the reward of patience, perseverance and confidence. How the fickle populace fell at his feet! One year ago he played on his own grounds to half empty stands while those who visited the games went to taunt him. On this year's natal day the Chicago rooters tramped upon each other in their mad endeavors to get within sight of the conquering hero and see him and his Colts win a double victory in their march toward the top. So enormous was the worshipful crowd at the afternoon game that a police riot call was sent out in order to get enough constabulary help to clear the field and let the game be played. In the two games 37,000 people saw the Colts' double headed victory.

A year ago last May the baseball critics were united in a loud demand for Anson's withdrawal from the diamond. Now the same critics are seeing which one of them all can sing loudest the praises of the victorious chief. It is another proof of the truism that nothing succeeds like success. Anson has an advantage which is not of present use alone. It reaches into the future. His team is full of young timber—players who are "coming," not going. With the exception of Robinson excepted, has been replaced by Hanklin with young players. The result is a team which improves and grows stronger year by year as some of those whose stars are going backward on account of age become weaker.

The men in control of the Brooklyn club are converts to the value of young players. They have strengthened their team materially by the addition of Anderson, Grim and Burrell. The New Yorkers are taking up the policy and have marked their men in the minor leagues for next season's team. By the way, the Brooklyn club is another team which has shown a remarkable reversal of form. Its May record was a miserable, discouraging one, but the June work of the so called Bridegrooms is almost unexcelled. They have won fame already by defeating the Boston in four games of five played.

In the team is a baseball living curiosity. I refer to Pitcher Daniel Daub. The Brooklyners met him several years ago from the ance as a racing man was at Springfield, Mo., on July 4, 1894, when he started in seven races and won all of them. He then joined the fast brigade of circuit chasers, and at the Toledo meet created a sensation by defeating such fast men as John S. Johnson, Bliss, Bald, Titus and C. M. Murphy in a mile open race. In August of the same year he and Titus rode a mile on a tandem in Minneapolis in 1 minute 52.5 seconds, and he closed the year as one of the bright stars of class B.

This year Cabanne has been faster than ever. He has already won about $2,000 worth of prizes, and, with the exception of Bald, has captured more open races on the national circuit than any other man. He recently rode two miles in the fastest time ever made in a handicap mile in competition. Cabanne is 25 years of age and is familiarly known as Duke Cabanne.
